

WON'T TOOT WITH U. S. BANDS.

STAND TAKEN BY UNION MUSICIANS HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

"We Have to Buy Our Own Food and Clothes," They Say, "and of Course We Can't Compete With Enlisted Men" If U. S. Band Plays at Princeton the Union Bands Will Be Silent.

If the union bandmen of Jersey belonging to the American Federation of Musicians finally consent to play with the United States Naval Academy Band at the Princeton commencement exercises it will be with the distinct understanding that the program will not call for any piece in which the bands must join.

Musicians in this city don't think that the union players of Jersey will win their fight against the Government band at Princeton.

President J. F. Kelly of the organization in this city, said yesterday:

If this case was out in San Francisco things would be fixed all right. The Government bands out there never have even a small at outside jobs in which they might injure civilian players. E. E. Schmitz is not only the Mayor of San Francisco, but he's a musician and is president of our local here.

But this is a very bad union town, and the same way over in Jersey. Princeton is in the jurisdiction of local 62 of Princeton, and C. F. Ruhlin is the president of that has this college commencement fight on his hands.

There has been fighting these Government bands for years because the men are supported by the Government and can afford to play for less than we can. They are enlisted men. It is just as bad for them to compete with us as it would be for a lot of enlisted men who happen to be bricklayers to compete with civilian bricklayers who have to buy their own food and clothes.

If the union musicians in Jersey and the Annapolis band are both at the exercises they won't play anything together. That's sure.

"Suppose the university officials wanted a grand wind-up with 'America' or 'The Star Spangled Banner' and asked all the bands to play together. What would happen then?" Mr. Kelly was asked.

Nothing at all would happen. The Government band would play 'The Star Spangled Banner' all by itself, or it would keep quiet and all the union bands would play it. But union and Government will never play a note together, no matter what the tune is or what the circumstances are.

The American Federation of Musicians has headquarters in St. Louis and local in 25 cities and towns in the United States. The local in this city has about 1,000 members, but doesn't amount to so much as the Musicians in New York City.

There is no harmony between the two organizations. Both of them are fighting Government bands, but they are fighting each other of one and the other.

The Mutuals think about the same of the Federationists in this part of the country. The Mutuals think about the same of the Federationists in this part of the country.

They are not real musicians," said a Mutual player yesterday of the American Federation crowd in Jersey. "They are delinquents men who toot around nights at Sunday school picnics after they've closed their stores."

The last row that was brought to the attention of the War Department was at New Orleans at a carnival, where all the union bandmen were on strike. Twelve United States musicians stationed at Jackson Barracks thought of the idea of playing the National Anthem.

The American Federation of Musicians complained to Secretary Root and told him that the commanding officer at the Jackson Barracks had allowed his men to compete with civilians on strike.

The commanding officer replied that he knew of no competition, and that was the end of the matter.

CLIFTON AVENUE ACCIDENT CASE.

Railroad Officials Want Trial Before a Full Bench and Change of Venue.

TRENTON, N. J., June 2.—Counsel for A. J. Cassatt, John D. Crimmins, Dr. Leslie D. Ward, Charles M. Shipman, E. F. C. Young and other officials of the North Jersey Street Railway Company indicted by the Grand Jury of Essex county as the result of an accident in which nine children were killed, applied to the Supreme Court for a trial at bar, that is, before the entire court, and with a struck jury selected outside of Essex county. The court reserved decision. The application was made by George T. Werts, Richard V. Lindabury and James H. Vredenburg. Mr. Lindabury told the court that the pulse of Essex county had been so inflamed by the press, the pulpit and various organizations, as well as by the action of the Newark Board of Trade, that it would be next to an impossibility to procure a jury in that county that would try the case impartially. He submitted affidavits by the score containing extracts from newspapers, public utterances from the pulpit and the press, and indicting the trolley company for permitting such conditions to exist as resulted in the collision of a train on the Lackawanna track with a trolley car at Clifton Avenue, Newark.

Prosecutor Riker of Essex questioned whether the certificate of the Supreme Court would be a power to pass on anything but the validity of the indictment, and also the right of the court in such proceedings to order a struck jury.

Mr. Riker explained that he was not opposed to a trial by either a struck jury or the entire court, believing that no miscarriage of justice could result, but he wished to satisfy that no legal quibble might afterward be raised which, through some technicality, might vitiate the proceedings. In view of such a possibility Mr. Riker thought the regular procedure would be the safest one to follow.

Justice Garrison inquired whether it was not within the power of any Circuit Court Justice to ask other Justices to sit with him in a case, and suggested that such a course be followed. A general discussion indicated that the other members of the court coincided in this view, but Mr. Lindabury insisted on pressing the original application.

The questions to be raised in the trial, he said, were so important that he felt it his duty to insist upon a trial at bar, while the sentiment in and about Newark was such as to make a change of venue necessary in the interest of justice.

The contention was made that the procedure was without precedent in any criminal procedure, to which Mr. Lindabury replied that a trial at bar was demanded and secured by former Secretary of State Henry C. Kelsey in a criminal suit to recover from the State of New Jersey. The defense in that case has been so tried in New Jersey since 1795, prior to which date the practice was not uncommon.

FEARED ANOTHER BIG PIER FIRE

Entire Hoboken Fire Apparatus Turned Out to Quench Small Blaze.

While softening paint on the side of the Long Island Railroad sideway at Sagadahoc at the Scandinavian-American pier in Hoboken yesterday, a workman started a blaze by permitting the flame from his gasoline lamp to penetrate between the seams of the craft. The fire was not discovered until it began to break out between the ceiling and the outside planking in the bulkheads. An officer of the Sagadahoc ran to a firebox on shore and jerked the handle back and forth several times.

When the alarm was received at Fire Headquarters Chief Applegate concluded that he had another big dock fire on his hands, and every bit of apparatus in the city was hurried to the pier. The firemen had the blaze under control a few minutes after their arrival.

Half of Hoboken was hurrying to the pier when the engines began to put back for home.

SYNDICATE MILLER NOT SICK?

Tombs Doctor Thinks So and Jerome Causes Tombs Doctor.

Dr. Jackson F. Campbell, the Tombs physician, said yesterday that he had made a physical examination of William F. Miller, the Franklin Syndicate manager, and didn't believe there was anything the matter with him.

"Did you hear what Dr. Jackson F. Campbell said about Miller's condition?" was asked of Mr. Jerome, who had heard.

Mr. Jerome devoted a bad word to Dr. Jackson F. Campbell, and said: "Miller is a very sick man."

Miller is trying a hard proposition for Assistant District Attorney Nott, who is preparing the case against Ammon, to handle. Sometimes Miller talks freely with Mr. Nott, but upon other occasions won't have anything to do with him. He is consistently friendly only to Mr. Jerome, whom he trusts.

"I suppose he's been double-crossed so much," said Mr. Jerome, "that his confidence in mankind is rather shattered. It makes it hard for Nott to prepare the case."

Before Miller was brought down from Sing Sing to testify against Col. Bob Ammon, District Attorney Clarke of Brooklyn made a written agreement not to press to trial any further indictments against Miller, in case Miller obtained a pardon from Gov. Odell. It was at District Attorney Jerome's request that Mr. Clarke made this promise.

REARDON'S SONS ESCAPE AGAIN.

Woods, the Complaining Witness, Said to Be in California.

When Magistrate Higginbotham yesterday in the Lee avenue police court, Williamsburg, called the cases against George and Mark Reardon, sons of ex-Police Captain John A. Reardon of 265 Bedford avenue; Chris Dalton, Daniel Carmichael, Henry Bernard and Daniel Bannon, who were charged with conducting a poolroom over George Reardon's saloon, opposite the police station at Bedford avenue and North First street, Assistant District Attorney Courtney declared that he was unable to go on with the case because of the disappearance of the complaining witness, Henry Woods. Mr. Courtney added that he had been informed that Woods had gone to California.

Woods, it was said, had been specially engaged by Police Captain Dooley to obtain evidence against the alleged poolroom. The place has been raided half a dozen times. On Woods's evidence a warrant was issued by Magistrate Higginbotham, Tuesday, for the arrest of the Reardon boys and three weeks ago Capt. Dooley again raided the place and made eight arrests.

Lawyer Hirsch, for the prisoners, said that Woods didn't dare to appear because he had been convicted of a felony, and served a term in prison. The Magistrate dismissed the proceedings, and discharged all the prisoners.

MOTHER LOVE IMPERILS BOY.

Mrs. Lane, Her Clothing Ablaze, Fires Boy's Bed Trying to Save Him.

Because of the explosion of an oil stove in the home of John Lane, at 131 Oakland street, Greenvale, his wife Albertina, 45 years old, was mortally burned. While she was trying to save her four-year-old son Robert, who was thought to be dying of pneumonia, the bed he was in caught fire and he was nearly suffocated. Mrs. Lane was preparing supper when the explosion occurred. Her clothing caught fire, which communicated to the table cloth. Fearing that the fire would spread, Mrs. Lane, her clothing ablaze, ran into the bedroom where her boy was and while bending over him the bedding caught fire.

Mrs. Mary Nolan, a neighbor, was attracted by Mrs. Lane's screams. She found Mrs. Lane a pillar of fire, and the bed was burning. While she was trying to smother the flames her clothing caught fire, and she was nearly suffocated. Mrs. Lane had been shocked by the fire. The fire in the bed was extinguished, and the boy was carried into a neighbor's room. Mrs. Lane was removed to St. Catherine's Hospital.

WRECK IN RUNAWAY'S PATH.

Horse Taken to Sidewalk and Breaks a Fence, a Window and a Barber's Pole.

A runaway horse attached to a delivery wagon took to the sidewalk on Seventh avenue near 124th street yesterday and had things all his own way for a few blocks. The hind wheel struck an elm tree, and the body of the wagon was hurled into the air. The horse reared on down Seventh avenue with the two front wheels trailing.

At 202d he smashed a railing and at 204d tried to climb a barber's pole. The pole crashed through the plate-glass window, bringing the barber and a well-lathered customer out on the street in a hurry. The policeman Evans caught him and turned him over to his driver.

Buried Servant in Family Plot.

Rachel Christy, a negress, 73 years old, was buried yesterday afternoon in the Price family plot in Hoboken Cemetery.

The family plot in Hoboken Cemetery. The old woman had waited at the table of the Prices for fifty years. The funeral was held from the Price home at 117 Bloomfield street, and was attended by many friends and relatives of the family to whom "Aunt Christy," as the old negress was called, had endeared herself.

Judges' Portraits Hung in Court. Portraits of ex-Judge William G. Choate and Addison Brown were unveiled in the Federal Building yesterday. They are the gifts of the lawyers of the court. Robert D. Benedict made the presentation speech and Judge Adams replied.

An Unusual Offering of Women's Silk Waists

This is one of the most important offerings of Women's Silk Waists that it has been our privilege to tell about this year. It's of most general interest, too, for every woman wants a silk waist or so, in addition to her summer supply of shirt-waists.

A splendid assortment of handsome, varied styles—the cool, unlined sorts—taken from our own stock, and priced thus:

At $3.50, formerly $5 to $6.75

Waists of plain white or black China silk, white, black or colored Louisiana, or Taffeta in white, black and plain colors; also fancy stripes or polka-dots. Some are plain, others plaited; some are lace-trimmed.

At $5, formerly $9 to $12

Waists of Crepe de Chine and Louisiana, in various plain colors and white, trimmed with lace; also Liberty and China silk, in white and colors.

All sizes are included in each group, though not necessarily in each style. Although quantities are ample, still the best choosing falls to the earliest comers.

Second floor, Tenth street.

The June Sale of White

evokes continued enthusiasm, with splendidly made muslin undergarments in full assortment of styles and prices. In the Under-Price Store are to be found liberal supplies of the low-priced Corset Covers, Drawers, and other garments; while on the Main and Second floors, the higher-priced styles are plentifully provided.
